Class Prophecy

The junior class of 1964, being one of many scholars, was invited to the campus of Teusch University with Thomas E. Teusch, founder and president. It is located in the metropolis of Sing Sang, a suburb of Goblesville, whose mayor Gaye Goebel invited us. Immediately upon entering the campus who should we meet but Robert Kohr, Dean of Students, who began to show us around. As we enter the Hall of Art, we gaze at the masterpiece of two walnuts by Dick Ninnemaker. Going on we soon find Don Gray working on a portrait of Alana Wendt.

When we move on to the Science Building, we see Mark Hiple and Richard Johnson playing tiddly winks in the street. Gazing across the campus we see Nancy Votrie and Phillip Baxter doing the twist to "Brahms Lullaby."

Upon arriving at the Science Building, dedicated to Timothy Soper by Margie Holmes, we see Karol Kelly with her assistant Douglas Coolman working on their discovery of the "fountain of youth."

We journey on to the Music College where we hear Becky Flora and Kenny Wagner warming up to the tune of "Hi Willie, Hi Woe" by the well-known William R. Oswalt. They were accompanied by Barbara Mason on her one man band.

Next on our tour is the Beauty College headed by Carol Holmes and assistant Nancy Yordy well-known for her famous hair style, the "bed bug"

The Business School which is next in line, is a busy place with Areldean Reckard, Sondra Swindler, and Ann Schroeder all trying to give Ted Sands (Mr. Brown of the school) prematurely grey hair.

On to the cafeteria since we are human and hungry ones at that, we see James Paxton chief cook and bottle washer getting ready to tell Janet Sands how to fix a Betz Salad. The salad consists mostly of "Brent Beets" obtained from the garden of Brent Andrews, millionaire farmer.

After lunch we think that we need a rest, so we slowly move to the football field where Becky Hacker and James Herzog are playing a lively game of chess. We find that we had just missed a game of baseball between Darrell Smith, Kenny Haris, Stanley Stucker and Cheryl Frye, Nancy Rader, Donna Clark. Of course Frye's team won.

At the end of our most enjoyable and enlightening day, we were taken home on a bus owned by Sherry Stevens and driven by the hot rodder of Goblesville, Janet Hefner.

THE END.
